Other Veggies	Type	Description
Artichoke	Standard Green	Each plant will give one to three artichokes. Space them two feet apart, as they get big!
Arugula	Standard Green	Mildly spicy salad green. Several plants per pot, separate when planting out to get larger yields.
Bean, Bush	Green Filet	Like pole beans, but plant stays short. Stake each one to hold it upright. 6 to 12 plants.
Bean, Pole	Green Filet	Pole beans need a tall trellis for support. Our six packs contain 6 to 12 plants.
Cucumber, American Slicing	Standard Green	Slicing cucumber. Covering the ground with plastic keeps it warm and prevents fruit from rotting.
Cucumber, Armenian	Striped, Curved	Easiest cuke to grow. Delicious! Let them scramble around the garden, or train up a trellis.
Cucumber, Lemon	Yellow, Round	They are ripe when the white fruit turns a bit yellow. A delicious addition to your garden patch.
Cucumber, Persian	Green	Persian cukes are shorter and a bit skinnier than your standard green cucumber.
Cucumber, Pickling	Green, Small	You'll need several plants for a proper harvest if you're pickling.
Cucumber, Suvo Long	Green, Long	Our favorite Japanese-type cucumber. Long, curved, and very prolific. Tender and sweet.
Kale, Toscano	Green, Dino	A long-lasting veggie in your garden, giving you edible leaves for more than 6 months.
Kale, Red Russian	Red/Grn, Serrated	Tender variety much more serrated than Toscano. Can be similarly long-lived, up to 9 months.
Lettuce, Mixed	Various	6 pack of delicious, tender lettuces. Protect all greens with organic slug control when planting.
Melon, Sugar Baby Watermelon	Small, Vining	Easy to grow and don't take much space, as they like to vine around. 1-2 melons per plant.
Onions, Mixed (Bulbing)	Various, Small	Mix of small onions. Both root & leaves are edible. 6-12 plants. Separate & space 2" apart.
Pea, Sugar Snap	Snap Pea	Not for shucking, you eat the whole pod. Needs staking. Separate & space 12" apart.
Pumpkin, Jack O' Lantern	Orange, Carving	Halloween pumpkin. 2-3 fruit per plant. Space plants 1' apart, and they will vine around.
Pumpkin, Musquee de Provence	Orange, Lobed	Gorgeous French heirloom. A delicious pie pumpkin as well. Space 1' apart.
Spinach	Standard, Green	Grows best in cool weather. They'll love the spring weather until the real summer heat kicks in.
Squash, Butternut	Winter Squash	A traditional squash that is delicious baked or made into soups. Space plants 1' apart.
Squash, Patty Pan	Summer Squash	Green disc inside yellow skin. Will grow into a large bush. Space them two feet apart.
Squash, Zucchini	Standard Green	Smooth, dark flesh. Will become a large bush. Space them 2' apart.
Squash, Zucchini Romanesco	Striped, Ridged	Lighter-skinned zucchini with ridges. Italian heirloom. Space them 2' apart.
Squash, Yellow Crookneck	Smooth, Hybrid	Zephyr crookneck has a long yellow neck & green bottoms. Very unusual! Space 2' apart.
Strawberry	Monterey, Hybrid	Protect them from slugs, earwigs and pillbugs. You'll want more than 1!
Herbs	Description
Basil, Genovese	Keep pinching back the growing tips to create a bushier plant. Pinch off flower pods to keep the plant producing.
Basil, Red Rubin	Red basil (aka purple basil) is similar to green Genovese, but with gorgeous color. Try this on a caprese salad!
Basil, Thai	A flavorful garnish for sweet dishes. Green, 2" long leaves have a spicy, anise/clove flavor. Beautiful and delicious!
Chives	An easy to grow herb, with many culinary uses. They bloom a pretty little round purple flower that is also edible.
Cilantro	A summer staple, especially for salsa. The flowers are delightfully edible. Their dried seeds are called coriander.
Dill	Dill has an interesting licorice flavor. Essential for some fish dishes. Try adding a few fronds to scrambled eggs.
Peppermint	Peppermint is a staple herb for many dishes. It can be invasive, so put it in a pot. It will last for years.
Oregano	Oregano is the "go-to" herb for pasta sauces, pizzas, and other meals. This is a low-growing hardy perennial.
Parsley, Italian	Parsley is essential in any robust herb garden, and our favorite is the flat-leaf Italian version.
Rosemary	Rosemary is a beautiful landscape perennial as well as a culinary herb. Cut sprigs and enjoy for years to come.
Sage, Culinary	Essential for roast turkey, it can be used in myriad ways, even in gorgeous edible landscapes.
Tarragon, French	Quintessential tarragon has a licorice flavor. This can live from year to year with careful tending.
Thyme, French	The upright stems with small gray-green leaves are very aromatic and flavorful. Low growing perennial.
Flowers	Description
Marigold	Rumored to ward off bugs. They attract pollinators and are a sweet addition to your veggie garden.
Nasturtium	Some of our favorite edible flowers. Sweet and spicy, throw them in your salads. Oh, and don't forget the petals too.
Sunflower	Sunflowers just scream summer, don't you think? Our variety is a nice pollen-less cutting type with multiple blooms

Sweet Pea

Color Mix. Lovely aroma and long stems for easier cutting. Six packs contain 6-12 plants. They will need a trellis.

All varieties are heirloom (aka "open pollinated") unless otherwise noted as hybrid (or F1). All tomatoes are indeterminate (will get up to 7' tall or more with proper care and staking) unless otherwise noted as "short" or "bush." The column entitled "DTM" means "Days to Maturity" and it's the number of days the seed company says you should get your first ripe tomato after planting. We don't rely on that number, as it varies greatly from garden to garden and completely relies on temperature and sunlight hours per day.
